Ixonía Bank Leadership Announcement

Beth Wnuk to Join Ixonía Bank as Senior Executive Vice President of Retail Banking and Wealth Management

Ixonía – January 2018: Ixonía Bank announced today that it has named Beth Wnuk as Senior Executive Vice President of Retail Banking responsible for its consumer and wealth management divisions, marketing and their enterprise wide women in business initiative. Beth has over 21 years of financial services experience, including serving as Regional President for PNC Bank in Wisconsin and, most recently as a Director on the Ixonía Bank board. She will report directly to Dan Westrope, the Bank’s Chairman and CEO.

“Beth is an experienced and highly regarded leader in the banking and financial services industry,” stated Dan Westrope. “Her appointment to this role will help us achieve a new level of excellence and position the organization strongly for further growth.”

At PNC, Beth served as the Regional President leading their $3 billion banking business in SE Wisconsin. Prior to that, she was the Milwaukee Market President for National City Bank, and held other various leadership positions at National City, including leading a global team of associates as the Director of Global Strategic Sourcing and as Senior Vice President responsible for their $13 billion Consumer Lending Product Management Division. Most recently, Beth served Mount Mary University as the Executive Vice President of Administrative Services and its Interim Chief Financial Officer.

Sheldon Lubar, President and CEO of Ixonía Bancshares, Inc. commented, “Ixonía Bank will benefit greatly from Beth’s leadership and deep knowledge of the Milwaukee area banking markets. She is a great addition to the bank’s executive leadership team and demonstrates the depth of the executive management shaping the future of Ixonía Bank.”

Beth earned her bachelor’s degree in history from the State University of New York – Buffalo, and her Master’s of Business Administration from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. Beth is an active community leader and has served on a number of non-profit boards. She currently serves as a director on the boards of the Wisconsin Women’s Business Initiative Corporation and Milwaukee Women Inc.
