Ixon Bank Leadership Promotion Announcement
Wendy Sowinski promoted to Senior Vice President of Commercial Lending

Ixon Bank – December 2018: The Board of Directors at Ixon Bank is proud to announce the promotion of Wendy Sowinski to Senior Vice President of Commercial Banking where her role will now include leading the Bank’s expanding Treasury Management offerings.

“Wendy has consistently demonstrated a genuine desire to broaden customer relationships across product and service lines,” states Dan Westrope, Chairman & CEO of Ixon Bank. “In addition to lending, Wendy now leads our efforts to provide our commercial customers with treasury management and other solutions that optimize the total banking experience.”

Recognizing that lending only addresses one side of a client’s needs; especially as a company considers expansion, Wendy will work to ensure that Ixon Bank has the tools necessary to assist in a growing company’s success. “Ixon Bank is continually investing in products and technology for its customers. I am excited for the opportunity to better help business clients access capital, improve efficiency, cut cost, improve cash flow, and mitigate risk which may involve services not commonly offered.”

Sowinski has been in the business banking industry for over 20 years. Prior to joining Ixon Bank in 2013 as Vice President, Wendy worked as a Relationship Manager for a large regional bank’s Business Banking division. She attended the University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee, and has held multiple licenses and certifications.

Wendy is actively involved in the community through volunteer work with The Joseph Project, serves on the Advisory Board for SCORE SE Wisconsin, and is a member of the Annual SBA Awards Steering Committee. Wendy lives in Oconomowoc where she and her husband have raised 5 children. Outside of the office Wendy enjoys camping, boating and spending time outdoors.
